Vigar Meets Death Doing Good Turn To A Neighbour

Double tragedy has befallen the Vigar family, who came to us from Treherne, Manitoba, just about one year ago. It will be remembered that early in this present year Mrs Vigar was called by the angel of death to the Great Beyond, leaving husband and a little lad of three years to mourn her loss. The separation of husband and wife will not prove if long duration, but the little lad is now left to mourn both father and mother. Fortunately however the little one has an aunt and uncle to care for his welfare, and softens the grief which is his, so early in his life.

Tuesday morning, May 20th, R. L. Vigar was staying at the R. Howell farm. And at the request of R. Howell was assisting him to hitch up a team of horses, when suddenly and unexpectedly the team took fright, knocking Vigar down before them and which passed over Vigar's head, rendering him unconscious from his injuries, which proved to be both skull and brain. The unfortunate victim only once regained consciousness and then only sufficient to ask for a drink of water. Both Dr. Folkins, of Chauvin and Dr. Smith, of Edgerton attended but it was impossible to accomplish any other than to send him to a hospital where there was a slim possibility of doing something. It was a chance in a thousand, but they decided at least to try. Hardly had a mile been travelled on the road to town before death had silently taken place, Vigar being unconscious to the last.

The funeral was conducted Friday, May 23rd. The body being laid to rest in the Chauvin cemetery.

Robert Leonard Vigar was thirty-six years of age, and was born in Somerset, England. For the last few years he was farming at Treherne, in Manitoba. During his brief residence in our district he had earned the highest respect and esteem of all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Junior Baseball Team Will Give A Dance

The Junior Baseball Team are organizing a dance to be held in the Agricultural Hall on Tuesday, June 3rd.

Dancing will commence at 9 o'clock and will continue all night. Good music will be provided and refreshments will be served.

Brighthening Up The Village

In our village it may be observed that gardens are being tended, and fences being put up, with quite an enthusiasm, and Chauvin should be a pleasant spot to look on when the fruits of the laborers, in the shape of flowers and vegetables are to be seen.

The members of the Chauvin must feel gratified indeed to see so the prizes which they have offered for the best gardens in the village.

Our visitors will go away with the thought that Chauvin must be a happy place to live in.

Alberta had, at the end of 1918, 235 women's institutes with a membership of 9,250. Upwards of forty of these institutes have established rest rooms.

Edgerton Celebration Draws Record Crowd From All Quarters

Edgerton held a very successful day of sports, Saturday, May 24th. This being the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria the Good, it was in the mind of all to make this an especially great occasion. Rather than have a number of small picnics, most everybody from Vera, Sask., to Irma, Alberta cooperated in the effort made by the citizens of Edgerton, Artland, Chauvin, Ribstone, Grenshields, Wainwright, Hawkins, Jarrow and Irma were all well represented.

Edgerton was suitably decorated by flags, and foliage, and the first event, the calathumpian parade excited much interest, despite the cohorts of the Fordson tractor in starting, the cars being prettily decorated and all the clowns good and warm at the fun making. As the morning past the crowd grew in number until the early afternoon by which time the grounds presented a very animated appearance, being well covered with cars and a large crowd of people.

The chief interest centred around the baseball tournament for which no less than five teams entered, Irma, Prospect Valley, Wainwright, Chauvin and the home team, Edgerton. The first game being between Irma and Prospect Valley, which proved a game full of interest, both teams putting up a fairly good game, the victory coming to the boys from the west, Irma, to the score of 5 to 2. Line up:-Irma, Harper 3rd base, Erickson shortstop, Giltner, left field, Berger centre field, Henry pitcher, Johnson catcher, Klemping 1st base, Smith right field, and Skiles, extra pitcher. Prospect Valley, Albar, catcher, Powers, pitcher, Murray, shortstop, Larsen 2nd base, Nestawan centre field, Arneson left field, Wilds second base, Arneson, J. 1st base, Stephens right field.

Wainwright surely met its 'Waterloo' at the hands of the boys from little old Chauvin, the score being 8 to 0 in favor of the 'villagers'. Line-up for Wainwright:- Ganderton 2nd, Blinn 1st, Cheetham 2b, Beebe 3rd, Edwards ss, Turner cf, Plaxton rf, Graham p, Simpson c. Chauvin line-up Paquette lf, Lambert p, Skinner cf, Curley c, Dundas ss, Baggley rf, Linnel 1st, Bagley A. 2nd Goodman 3rd Hass and Mathieson.

Perhaps the keenest game of the tournament was that between Chauvin and Edgerton. This was full of interest every moment if the game and ended in favor of Chauvin, the score being 6 to 5 in favor of the visiting team. A certain decision of the umpire was severely questioned and a tendency to bad feeling was apparent on the part of a few. Edgerton line-up Scallons, J. Bryant, J., Sadlier, Kelly, McPeck, Jackson L, Dean B, Spornitz W, Wheeler W.

After the supper hour the final was staged between Chauvin and Irma, resulting in a victory to Chauvin, who thus became winners of the first money, $70.00: Irma winning the second money, $30.00.

(We regret we are unable to give the Irma line-up)

Edgerton is to be congratulated upon its sports ground which naturally form an excellent ambitheatre, the gentle slope on the northeast, providing an excellent natural grandstand for seeing the game. It is a good point if advantage for the band, whilst those taking refreshments at the booths do not need miss seeing what is going on.

The Edgerton band, supported by auxiliaries from Wainwright and from Chauvin added not a small measure to the pleasures of the day by rendering some very good music.

Considerable interest centred around the horse races, held on the source on the west side of the grounds.

Horse race:- 1, Hicks of Chauvin, 2, Bagley of Edgerton, 3, McNairn of Gilt Edge

Pony race:- 1, Symington of Edgerton, 2, Parkinson of Edgerton

Free for all:- McNairn of Gilt Edge 2, Symington of Edgerton, 3, Edmonds of Edgerton.

In the tug-of-war Edgerton beat a team composed of all comers.

We are not able to give a full list of the prize winners in the athletic sports

Veterans Will Organize Local At Chauvin

The men who have received an honorable discharge from the Canadian Military or Naval Forces, or from one of the Naval or Military Forces of any of our allies in the Great War, are requested to meet in Chauvin on Saturday the 31st, day of May, at 7.30 o'clock a.m. for the purpose of forming a local branch of the G.W.V.A. at Chauvin. The meeting will be held at the office of T. H. Saul. Letters have been mailed to all men whose names and addresses could be located; and this announcement is published as a reminder, and as a cordial invitation to every man of the aforementioned forces to be present; whether he received a letter or not. Being so far removed from an existing branch of our official organization, it is not possible to attend their meetings; and the only way in which we can keep in touch with the matters which most vitally affect us is by having a branch of our own.

(Signed) E. A. PITMAN,
(late 10th Battalion).

School Gardens

"The school garden supplants or at least, supplements mere book training presents real problems, with many interacting influences, affording a base for the study of all nature, thereby developing the creative faculties and encouraging natural enthusiasm; puts the child into touch and sympathy with its own realm; develops manual dexterity; begets regard for labor; conduces to health; expands the moral instinct by making a truthful and intimate presentation of natural phenomena and affairs; trains in accuracy and directness of observation; stimulates love of nature; appeals to art-sense; kindles interest in ownership; teaches garden-craft; evolves civic pride; sometimes affords a means of earning money; brings teacher and pupil into closer personal touch; works against vandalism; aids discipline by allowing natural exuberance to work off; arouses spontaneous interest in the school on the part of both pupils and parents; sets ideals for the home, thereby establishing one more bond of connection between the school and the community.

BORN: To Mr. and Mrs. Vielleux, of Chauvin, a son, May 21st 1919.

There has been a steady growth in the attendance at the Chauvin Sunday School lately. Last Sunday there was an attendance of thirty-six.

Chauvin was surely a deserted village last Saturday. Nearly every one having gone to Edgerton.

We noticed our old friend Mr Herbert carrying an armful of saws the other day. Now our local butchers are not wasting so much bone in cutting the roasts.

Mr. T. H. Saul has returned from a visit to the capital city.

Among the most recent purchasers of Ford cars, we notice Sgt E. A. Pitman.

Mrs. P. K. Johnson, Miss Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. K. Djuff and family have been on an auto trip to Swift Current.

A man in Cobourg, Ont., stubbed his toe against an obstruction on the sidewalk, fell, and hurt himself. There is now a suit pending against the town. Why the same thing has not happened in Chauvin at least a hundred times in the past few months can be explained only by the theory that Chauvinians in general are exceedingly walkers.

A party of Artland boys motored to Chauvin last Friday.

Mr. M. and Mrs. Oscar Scholin, were visitors in Chauvin last week.

Mr. T. H. Saul returned from Edmonton, on Sunday.

At the last meeting of the Lealholme U.F.A. it was decided that four delegates would be sent to the Boys and Girls Conference in the University at Edmonton, June 3rd to 28th, which is being held for the benefit of the Boys and Girls in the rural districts.

It was also decided if possible to hold a service in Prosperity School on U.F.A. Sunday. The Rev Anderson at Chauvin has kindly consented to preach so there will be divine service in the Prosperity school house at eleven o'clock, Sunday, June 15th.

Members of other locals as well as all citizens are invited to come to the U. F. A. Sunday

Big Increase In Alberta Acreage

An increase of from eighteen to twenty per cent in the Alberta crop acreage is estimated by the publicity branch of the department of agriculture, on the basis of reports sent in from the field. These reports show that there has been considerably more wheat crop out in the southern part of the province while in the northern districts there has been a great increase in the acreage of oats and other feed grains. The aggregate of tilled land Alberta is shown by the government figures to have doubled in five years.

Allowances Act For Mothers Will Be Public Soon

The mother's allowances act will be in operation throughout Alberta in the course of the next week or two. It is announced by the attorney general's department. The act is now in the printers' hands, the intention of the government being to distribute it in pamphlet form for the use of all the municipalities. Application forms are also being prepared for distribution.

The administration of the act will be under the direction of A. M. McDonald, superintendent of the department of the neglected and delinquent children. A branch office of that department is being opened in Calgary to take care of the new work in the southern part of the province as well as the other work of the department.

Trifles Light As Air

It takes so little to make life sad,
It takes so little to make life glad,
Just one kind word at the set of sun
When I am tired and the day is done.

It takes so little to calm a fear,
It takes so little to dry a tear,
Just one sweet smile when he heart is sore
Will soothe the wound and cover it o'er

It takes so little to bring us joy,
It takes so little when cares annoy,
Just one kind thought some heart doth sent,
Just one caress from a loving friend.

Seeding DownThe Lawn

A well kept lawn adds much to the beauty of the home, whether in the farm, or in town or village. The native prairie grass which is used so extensively is hard to clip and frequently contains grasses of many kinds as well as numerous weeds. In breaking up the prairie grass in preparation for cultivated grass the soil should be broken early in the season and backset later on. The ploughing should be deep and the land well worked down and all grass and weeds destroyed. If potatoes can be grown the second year and well looked after the ground will then be in first class condition for lawn grass.

Many mixtures of grasses are sold but practically all are made up largely of Kentucky Blue Grass. On the Scott Station excellent results have been had from Kentucky Blue Grass sown alone. This makes a grass of fine texture fairly easily clipped and one that is not easily destroyed.

The surface preparation of the seed bed will consist in levelling up the lawn with the harrow or rake and making the soil quite firm to near the surface. This should be done early in the season or after a rain.

The quantity of seed required will amount to approximately 100 lbs per acre or for a 25 by 140 ft lot about eight pounds. This last quantity will cost less than $3.00

In sowing, the seed can be spread by hand if no grass seeder is available and then harrowed or raked in. It is advisable to sow one-half of the seed first, the other half later sowing across ways with the first seed.

The main points to be observed, are, to have the seed bed in good tilth and see that the ground is levelled off properly; to sow early in the season and to have the seed evenly spread on the lawns.

Pasture For HogsReduces Cost of Pork

High prices for farm produce do not always mean large profits. Cost of production plays a very important part in determining the net profit a farmer makes on what he has to sell. This is a matter that should receive more attention than is being given to it. Manufacturers of articles that the farmer has to buy study the question of cost production very carefully. The farmer is a manufacturer of the things the other fellow has to buy, and while he does little in the way of setting the prices for his products, he should and should do more towards lessening production cost.

Take, as an example, the production of pork. Economical production of pork depends largely upon the consumption of cheaply grown feed. In the summer time the hogs should be put on pasture. The pasture should be so managed that the forage produced will be clean, tender, and palatable. The idea that anything, no matter how dirty, is good enough for hog feed is erroneous. While the hog will eat some dirty food, he will eat more and thrive better if he is given clean food and clean water. Such crops as alfalfa, clover, rape or peas and oats make good hog pasture. The pasture should not be overgrazed. It is best to divide the pasture into two or three equal areas and allow the hogs to remain in each a week or ten days. This will allow the first pastured areas to recuperate before the hogs are turned into it again.

Some grain also should be fed when hogs are on pasture. Opinions differ regarding the quantity that should be fed. A medium ration would be from two per cent of the live weight of the hog. No fixed rule can be held regarding this. The pasture should be tender and clean, and enough grain should be fed to keep the hogs shapely and in thrifty, growing condition at all times.

Crops sown on spring breaking the year the work is done, seldom produce satisfactory yields. The reason lies in the lack of soil moisture. The native grasses pump out the water almost as fast as the soil absorbs it. This explains why it is advisable in dry climates to cultivate prairie land for nearly a year before sowing a crop on it.

No more trouble in Dyeing. Sun Set Soap Dyes are simple. No staining of hands or utensils. Washing and dyeing all done in one effort.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

—Sunday, June 1st 1919: Faith:
What it is and What it Does Hebrews 11: 1-10: 1, 2.

The people to whom this epistle was written, had list the temple, the sacrifices, the symbols of Old Testament religion. As Christians, they had to believe in a great invisible high priest and Saviour. The writer shows that faith in the invisible behind the visible was always needed to make men victorious.

GOLDEN TEXT—Believe in God, believe also in me.—John 14: 1.

The Music Of The Willing Heart

A poor old fiddler was trudging late one night through Epping Forest, when a little man in a red cap met him.

"I want you to come and play at a wedding dance," said he.

"I'm sorry, sir," said the fiddler: "but I and my fiddle are too old for that sort of thing. What with my ment, I can only make such a screeching noise that people are glad to give me a penny to stop playing and go away."

"Never mind," said the little man. "If you can only play with a willing heart, you'll play well enough!"

He took the old fiddler to a lighted cave in the depth of the wood, and then led him down an underground passage, which opened out into a splendid hall. Hundreds of pretty tle fairies came dancing with delight round the poor old fiddler, crying:

"Do plan us a waltz! We have never heard a waltz! Do play for us!"

Remembering that it was only a willing heart that they wanted, the old beggar put his old fiddle under his chin and began to play. To his surprise, his arm and fingers became as strong and supple as a young man's, and his broken fiddle gave out a tone of wonderful beauty. Rocking himself to and fro with joy at the fine music he was making, he played for hours and hours without feeling the least fatigue; and when he had played every tune he could remember, one of the fairies said:

"Willing heart shall have a willing hand. Hence forward you shall always play as well as you have played to-night!"

When the old fiddler woke up next morning, he found he had become an excelent violinist, and that he had grown forty years younger; while his cheap fiddle had turned into a magnificent violin with a splendid tone. One step won't take you very far, You've got to keep on walking,

OF COURSE NOT

"If I stay in this steet," asked a lady a policeman, "will it take me to the railway station?"

When is it easy to see what a man is thinking about?

When he has a pain (pane) in his head.

What is the difference between a brewer and a kangaroo?

One buys hops, and the other takes them.

Why is a crocodile a most deceitful animal?

Because it greets you with an open face and takes you in.

What three letters is it that a good teacher cannot do without?

A W Z (a wise head), of course.

The Peacock and The Crane

One day a peacock and a crane chanced to meet. The peacock strutt- ed past, spreading its fine tail and looking with contempt upon the other.

"Well," said the crane "fine feathers make fine birds indeed, but I think that it is much grander to be able to do something and soar above the clouds, than to strut about on the ground to be looked at by every passer-by."

Those who are finely dressed should not scoff of their poorer companions.

The Oak and the Reed

A great oak-tree which grew beside a river was blown down one stormy night. As it lay on the ground in the morning it noticed a reed which grew close to the edge of the water, and had not ben injured. The oak was surprised, and asked how it could reain safe and uninjured in a storm which had been strong enough to tear up an oak by the roots.

The reed replied:

"I am safe because, instead of being stubborn and stiff, and trusting in my own strength, I yield and bend tto the blast, which then goes over my head and does not harm me at all."

"It is not wise to be stubborn; is is often safer to bend and give way."

Four Things

Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true:
To think without confusion clearly,
To love his felow-men sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and heaven securely.

Looking Backward At Prices Obtained Ten Years Ago.

The strike at Winnipeg, bringing in its train a sympathetic strike of no less than 0.000 workers in the City of Winnipeg and sympathetic strikes in the leading western cities has much of its cause in the high cost of living. Under this we publish an extract from the Calgary Herald which quotes the prices of certain farm produce ten years ago, and the to-days prices.

Comment is un-necessary, the conditions of the wage-earners are far inferior to those of the farmer. Thus we see the general consent to strike,

U. F. A. Sunday

Will Be June 15th

Farmers' Sunday in Alberta will be June 15th this year. That day has been set apart under the auspices of the U.F.A. as a day for a general consideration of the relations between the organized farmers' movement and the churches. Ministers of the several denominations will be invited to preach sermons at a number of U.F.A. mass meetings, and in their own pulpits will also speak of the aims and objects of the movement, showing how the church and the farm can help each other. A day of this kind has been named each year, and has proved a popular feature of the church calendar.

President H. W. Wood, of the U.F.A., refers to the matter in his annual circular as follows:

The church in the past has placed its emphasis on making individuals better. The U.F.A. is placing its emphasis between the two; or is there an impassible barrier between them? Does the church need a regenerated social system in which its individuals the higher laws of life? Does the U.F.A. need better individuals to build into its social system?

"It is evident that we cannot separate the individual from society, or society from the individual.

"The U.F.A. should make a close investigation of foundation principles and should be told by the church whether or not Christian teachings offer any information that will be of assistance in social regeneration. The fight is on between democracy and autocracy, between God and mammon, and this fight is to the finish.

"The U.F.A. and the church must both know exactly where they stand in this conflict. Surely there will be many things to consider this U.F.A. Sunda, and world conditions call for the deepest thought there is in us.

Hastening The Corn Crop

F. T. Shutt, Dominion Chemist, points out, in an article in the Agricultural Gazette for May, that one of the more important functions of a phosphoric acid fertilizer is to hasten maturity and expresses the view that an application of it will materially hasten the ripening of the corn crop, more especially in an adverse season. By risk from early autumn frost and the time for cutting has arrived. He suggests superphosphate per acre broadcasted or drilled in on prepared land before planting. In order that the effect might be noted, Dr. Shutt suggests an application of, say, 350 lbs this means the corn may reach the that a strip alongside should be left untreated.

The corn growers in the colder and more northern parts of Canada might find some advantages from the use of

For head lice on chickens the use of blue ointment or mercurial ointment has been found effective. One part of the ointment is mixed with 2 parts of vaseline and a lump of the mixture about the size of a pea is rubbed thoroughly at the base of the feathers about the head.

Homemakers Clubs
In Saskatchewan

The Homemakers' Clubs of Saskatchewan devoted considerable of their energies during the period of the war towards providing money and comforts for the Red Cross and other relief work. While complete records have been forwarded to headquarters, sufficient definite information is available to make a fairly accurate approximate statement which shows that of money $95,000 was provided, and articles numbering 70,000, consisting chiefly of pairs of socks and hospital supplies.

Artland Notes

By Robert Jukes

A train composed of some half a dozen cars passed through last week, filled with troops from the east to western points.

Mr. Harrison, an inspector for the Canada Life Association Coy. arrived from Saskatoon recently, on a short trip in the surrounding district.

We are glad to note that our old friend, Henry Johannes has made a start in the sheep business.

This however seems already assumed, for having purchased a bunch of 20 Shropshire ewes, and a ram, on the 19th instant, he has already got 22 healthy lambs. This is going some!

We hear that a very pleasant evening was spent at Brady school, last Friday, the occasion being the 'Social' that was organized by the ladies of Sherlock Lake. Everybody enjoyed themselves notwithstanding that it was rather crowded for dancing.

With reference to the note that appeared in our last issue entitled "Brady Pie Social, May 23rd," we have, up to the moment of going to press, received no notice from the Chairman or Secretary, as to the programme to be arranged in connection with the Returned Soldiers. The meeting of the committee will no doubt be held shortly at some date to be arranged—We will publish the same in due course on receipt of advice from the Committee of Management.

Some railway surveyors passed here recently—We are informed that they are operating somewhere in the neighbourhood of W Gibbard.

The "Smelling" contest which had been looked forward to with curiosity by a good many people turned out a grand success, over $100 being realized from the sale of pies.

The Returned Soldiers Fund is enriched by the donation of the $100 raised at this social.

Altogether our Sherlock friends are to be congratulated on a most successful evening

Brady Grain Growers
To Meet, May 31st

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir,
As a contributor to the above fund, for the survivors of the men Brady Roll of Honor; I would like to make an observation.
Since the institution of this fund, it appears to me that the general body of subscribers have never had the opportunity of expressing their views in public meeting, as to what form the proposed testimonial should take.
If such a meeting was held, con-

GEORGE W. LAWSON
Secretary,

tributers and the general public could state their views and opinions thus affording an opportunity to the committee of management, to gain a knowledge of the general sentiment, and upon that basis build their own line of action.
It has been suggested that the testimonial should take the form of a watch for each man, as also those who have nobly fallen.
In lieu of this, I venture to suggest the building of a modest Memorial Hall for public purposes of all kinds, to the special memory of those who have been taken from us. The survivors while also indirectly sharing in this mark of appreciation, should be the recipients of some further token whether in the form of a watch or otherwise.

This proposition would naturally involve a higher expenditure than originally contemplated.
I think, however that this consideration would not weigh generally, seeing that such an effort on our part would constitute a real and permanent memorial to our gallant dead, while at the same time in no way ignoring the members of the Brady contingent who happily are still with us.
In addressing you these few lines, I trust that there may yet be time to develop the idea I have endeavoured to outline, before any further steps are taken in this matter of the watches
I am yours faithfully,
J. A. PROCTOR

OUR SERIAL STORY

CHAPTER XIV
A tell-tale Llocal'

It was the first Sunday in September and Daisy Enderby was finding it very quiet at the Dingle—far too quiet for her mercurial temperament. Not only was it Sunday, but it was Church Sunday with not a sign of a young man round the place. and Daisy felt that she had a genuine grievance against the world in general and young men in particular.

It was dull and chilly outside and yet not cold enough to have a fire in the box stove. Mrs. Enderby was resting upstairs; Mr. Enderby, Bert, and Marion had walked over to the anniversary service in the Presbyterian Church, a mile away, 'condoning,' so Daisy declared at dinner-time when the walk was planned, 'heresy and schism for the sake of being neighbourly and to humour Dugald M'Leod,' she added with maliciously and pointedly to Marion.

Only Daisy and Evelyn Raye were left at home, and for the past hour Evelyn had been writing at a little table by the window. Daisy stood it as long as she could, then she took a walk up to the stables and scolded the chore boy whom she found smoking a surreptitious cigarette in the granary; from there she wandered to the end of the lane on the town line—not a soul in sight—and back to the house, where Evelyn was still writing. Evelyn looked up with a smile and a little nod as she went on with her letter—it was the last straw.

'Evelyn, if you don't put that writing away I shall do something desperate. For three mortal Sundays there has not been a soul near the place more interesting than Jim Hardie's chore boy, and he only came up for some horse medicine, and now every body else has gone off to the Conventicle up the road and you have not said a dozen words to me since you came back this morning from your visit to Minnedosa, and you ought to have lots of news to tell me.'

'I'm very sorry, dear, if I've been unsociable, but I wanted to get my "home" letters finished to-day—your father is going to town in the morning—but I've almost finished, and then I'll tell you my news. I'm afraid there is nothing very exciting after all; but you see, Daisy, here is the last Minnedosa paper; Mr. Jordan gave it me this morning for your father and I forgot to give it to him. I'll have finished my letter by the time you have read it, and then I'll talk, or walk, or do anything you wish.'

'Well, your letter must be nearly finished then, for the paper usually lasts me five minutes for the news and ten if I read the advertisements—thank you, dear, I'll read the "locals" first' and Daisy settled herself down on the old lounge and proceeded to read the 'locals' with more or less audible comments to herself;

'Mrs. William Brown returned from a visit to relatives at Russell on Tuesday.' (How thrilling!)

'Our worthy young fellow-townsmen, Mr. Fred Twopenny, returned from his wedding trip to the East last Saturday—congratulations, Fred.' (How horribly familiar!)

'A deputation of our leading citizens, headed by Mr. Pat Cassidy, waited on the local government this week with regard to a rearrangement of the town debenture indebtedness. They report a very sympathetic reception and returned with the assurance of material assistance if the Government is sustained at the ensuing election.' (I call that rather barefaced, even for Manitoba.)

'Mr. Tom Dennis—'

'There, Daisy, I'm ready now,' broke in Evelyn, locking her desk with a sharp click and rising from her chair as she spoke.

'Just a moment, Evelyn, I must see what the 'Star' has to say about Tom—'

'Mr. Tom Dennis of Connemara Farm brought in some very fine wheat in the straw on Saturday morning; he says he has forty acres of it ready for the binder. He came in for an additional supply of twine.' (Did he really now!) 'He expects it to run close to thirty bushels to the acre. Keep an eye on Connemara Farm, girls, if that's the kind of farmers they are.' (Well, I call that the limit; Tom and Jack will be furious when they see it.) 'By the way, Evelyn, did you see this wonderful wheat—and Tom—on Saturday?'

'Not on Saturday, but he was in at the Rectory after church on Sunday.'

'After church on Sunday—oh, Evelyn Raye!'

'You see he came in on Saturday evening so as not to waste any time, and it was very dark on Saturday night.' (G.G.)

'Tom very like Tom not to want to drive home in the dark. I hope he left in good time on Sunday, the dew falls so early and the damp is so bad for children.'

'Daisy, dear, don't be ridiculous,' said Evelyn, blushing in spite of herself, 'he left just after tea; we went for a walk with the Rectory Childer after dinner—and, oh, by the way, Tad Jordan is to come up to the Dingle the first time any one is down; perhaps your father will bring him to-morrow.'

'Of course he will. We all like Tad up here; he has a great time among the men and the horses, and he's a great boy to talk—not in a noisy, boyish way at all—but he says the oddest things in a quiet, simple voice, and has a way of observing and drawing conclusions of his own about people and things that is quite capable of proving embarrassing.'

'I saw a great deal of him during my visit to the Rectory; we used to go long walks down by the river and through Cowan's Bush, and I got into the way of talking to him as if he were grown up.'

'Everybody does, I think, and he's as his father to tell anything to in confidence; it's the little things he notices and says nothing about at the time that he is apt to reproduce to one's undoing, but it's entirely without guile and in simple, good faith.'

'He always spoke enthusiastically of the good time he had when he came up to the Dingle, and this time he is to be allowed to go for a day's shooting at the Dennises—Mr. Tom Dennis promised to take him out for a day—the day I came up to the Dingle.'

'Well, Tad won't forget—if Tom is not too busy to come over from him—he might be, you know; perhaps he will come over on a Sunday—not in the drak, you know—'

'There are the others back from church,' said Evelyn, who had gone to the window, ignoring Daisy's last remark: 'I'll ask Mr. Enderby now if he can call for Tad. Why, I wonder where Marion is—it's just Mr. Bert and his father.'

'Oh, she must be there,' said Daisy joining Evelyn at the window. 'Why there she is coming through the lane with Dugald M'Leod—and see, Evelyn, he's carrying her bible—watch him holding the garden gate open for her; if those flowers in his coat are not the very identical sweet peas I pinned on Merry's blouse. I'm a Dutchman, or at least a Dutchwoman; he's done it—as sure as eggs is eggs—on a Sabbath too. See how innocent merry will be when she comes in; but rum's the word—here comes Dad and Bert both looking as unconscious of the sky falling as the Babes in the Wood.'

'Well girls here we are,' said Mr. Enderby as he and Bert entered the room: 'did you think we were never coming? It was all very nice and friendly down there; the minister they had up from Winnipeg was a very good speaker—he gave us more of a lecture than a sermon. I suppose Mr. Jordan with his twenty minutes has spoilt us for—'

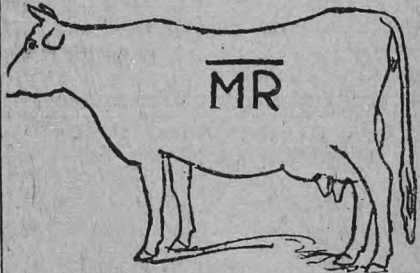

'For an hour and twenty minutes—eh, Dad?' interrupted Daisy. 'Well, if Ephriam will go after strange idols, it's his own fault if he's bored. I suppose there was a great crowd?'

'Yes the place was packed; there are a lot of themselves, and then the Methodists closed their church for the day, and there was a sprinkling of our church as well as ourselves.'

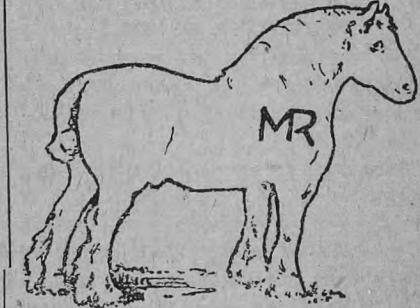

'I guess it was a pretty thin sprinkling,' said Daisy. 'I'll say this for our (Continued on next page)

"No, Jack was not at the service—I wish to goodness he had been," replied Mr. Enderby, looking vexed. "We met him on the town line as we were coming back—near old Dawson's; he had been up to try and get his mail, and old Dawson wouldn't give it to him—said the office was closed."

"I know we have, but he doesn't have to give it out on a Sunday; it would have been all right if Mary Ann had been there, but she and the old lady were away to church, and I expect the old man wanted to pay the Dennis boys back for chaffing him. To make it worse, he told Jack

"Why, he could do nothing, but judging by the rage he was in when we met him I imagine he said a good deal."
"And Jack can talk plainly," remarked Daisy appreciatively, when his "Irish" is up—serve the horrid old man right too."
"Well, I'm sorry it happened," said Mr. Enderby. "I hate any fuss and ill will in the settlement; however, it cannot be helped. By the way, Jack said something about Tom coming over for Tad Jordan—when is the boy coming up?"
"He was to come up the first time any one was down and had room for him; Evelyn thought perhaps you could bring him up to-morrow."
"I suppose I can; he will have to ride on a load of twine, but I don't suppose he will mind."
"He will be perfectly happy so long as he gets here. I think," said Evelyn, "he's longing to come up."
"And," added Daisy, "he's to go over to the Dennises for a day's shooting. Now, Dad, if you and Bert will 'vamoose' we girls will get supper ready. Oh, Merry, here you are at last—and Mr. McLeod too! Now if you two can entertain each other for just a 'leettle' bit longer, Evelyn and I will have the table set in no time. I do hope, Merry, the walk was not too much for you?"
Later on in the evening Daisy discovered to her great disgust that she had not yet made sufficient allowance for the diffidence of Dugald McLeod in his wooing, and she had no reserve in expressing her disappointment to her sister.
"Well, Merry, if you can put up with the slowness of the pace I suppose the rest of us will have to—but it is an Englishman or Irishman for mine, when the time comes. After all I expect it is half your own fault; you know Dr. Casey says—There's many a good fish lost through not knowing when to strike—but you never a sport so what's the use of talking?"
(To be continued next week)

One Woman On The Job

Now Teddy dear and do you hear
The news that's going round;
I am elected school trustee
Now I'll clear up the ground.
The day I was elected
I took after Mr. Bing:
Twas for that old long standing
grudge,
But I did comb him then.
You remember how he looked Ted,
Sat there so tall and straight,
Was so much of a gentleman,
He would not retaliate.
Next came Mr. Stout the Scotchman
The great big burly bear;
Who said when woman held the Fort
That he would not be there.
We tackled him together, Ted,
You had an axe to grind,
Our progress it was very slow,
Till this came to my mind.
This Scotchman has a little son,
A boy of nine at school,
He is a studious little chap,
And seldom breaks a rule.
But when a personal friend of mine
Did stand up straight and square
And tell to all the people,
That this little lad did swear.
Twas then the rate-payers took it up
And firmly took a stand,
When they demanded fair play,
I had to take a stand.
We thought then my dear Teddy,
That we were down and out;
All on account of Mr. Bing
And the Scotchman Mr. Stout.
But our courage it revived, Ted,
We buckled to the fray,
Twas you suggested that we take
Stouts Councilship away.
You did the best you could, Ted
And fairy tales you told,
From out the council chamber,
That would shame the Bards of old.
But Stout was re-elected
By acclamation strong,
Which shows he was in the right, Ted
And we were in the wrong.
Now back to home and babe I'll go
And do the best I can,
If woman is so superior,
Why marry a—mere man.
I. C. A.

The Kodak is made by the Eastman

This firm has made the "Kodak" fam-

How did they do it? By advertising as leaders in their line and by back-goods procurable, a highly advertised line has git to be backed up with ma-

RHUBARB CULTURE

Rhubarb prefers a moist and shady position and will do well on the west or north side of a bluff or building.

Dig a trench two feet wide and eighteen inches deep. Mix the soil with an equal quantity of well rotted stable manure and return to the trench Rows should be four foot apart and the plants set in the rows three foot apart. The crowns two inches below the surface. Pack the soil well about the roots and give a good soaking with water or liquid manure

If the ground is well drained, water frequently while growing

CONSERVE YOUR CAPITAL

Around nearly every one of the twelve hundred farms within the radius of twenty miles of Chauvin, there are countless things of service and value, but are of no present use nor income to their owners. Taking fifty dollars as the average value of such idle material, fast becoming junk, we come to the conclusion that there are

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS LAYING IDLE WITHIN TWENTY MILES OF CHAUVIN

Now is a time when every resource needs to be conserved. Now is not a good time for auction sales, especially of goods in small quantities. Now is the time when folks are seeking to save money when making pur-
